

Extract from an Address by L N Sisulu, MP, Minister for the Public Service and Administration at her Inauguration as the Chancellor for Mangosuthu University of Technology

“ It is a great honour to have been invited to be part of this university. It is with a great sense of service and responsibility that I have accepted this nomination. Having spent many years in various universities myself, this feels like a home-coming. I am a product of many histories that continue to form and influence me and it would remiss of me not to state right from the start that the struggle for freedom is the major part of these histories that has shaped my development and thinking. I accepted the nomination as Chancellor of the Mangosuthu University of Technology because we here represent the most disadvantaged, even of those in tertiary education and that we here, under the inspired leadership of our current administration, have taken upon ourselves the noble core values that I hold dear, and I found that this is a place where it is possible to inspire the youth, support them that they may be the leading light to create a society that lives and believes in acting with integrity, that committed themselves to strive to excellence in all they do, that in all they do, they respect others, and strive to be at the forefront of technology. My faith in you has been restored. ”
